

IML COMPUTER CENTER ABUSE CONCERNS

The IML Computer Center was provided to the students of WVU to enhance their learning of mathematics. We all need to take responsibility for caring for the lab. Obey the following computer center rules:

1. No drinks or food in the lab. If a student has food or drink they will be asked to remove them from the computer center.
2. Do not touch the screens, especially with pens or pencils. This marks the screens and destroys the monitors.
3. Do not load software on the computers. Students are not allowed to load software and are not to change computer settings.
4. This is a mathematics lab. No other subject areas are to use these labs.
5. Clean up the computer station area when you are finished. This includes exiting the program you were using. Please leave the area clean for the next student using the computer.
